

HIGH COURT IN DECISION FOR PIERCE

SUSTAINS QUASHING OF INDICT-
TAXPAYERS' LEAGUE.

FREE SPEECH ABRIDGED

Section of Corrupt Practices Act
Which Janesville Man Is Accused of Violating Declared Unconstitutional

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, June 13.—The supreme court today, with Justices Kerwin and Siebecker dissenting, sustained the municipal court of Dane county in dismissing the indictment brought against Charles E. Pierce of Janesville, member of the Home Rule and Taxpayers' League. The opinion is written by Chief Justice Winslow, who says:

Abridges Free Speech.
"The question presented is whether er Section 1205 sustains or abridges the citizen to freely speak and publish his sentiments on all subjects. We think there is no doubt that it does so under the terms a man or body of men who are not members of the necessity of a change of policy in the state government, commit a crime if they spend any money in another county than their own in bringing forth their views to the notice of the voters of any other county. There is really no other exception to this, and it is that a public speaker may pay his traveling expenses in going to and from his own meetings, even if he may not hire a hall, in which he makes his speech. If this is not an acknowledgment of freedom of speech, it is difficult to imagine what would be. "We are by no means unmindful of the high and admirable purpose which inspired the authors of the corrupt practices act. There is no member of this bench who is not in the fullest sympathy with it and against occasion

during political campaigns, but whenever such a law goes beyond regulation and absolutely prohibits that which the constitution expressly protects, then the constitution does not permit it. The fact that the act is invalid as a whole. We are now concerned with Section 1205 alone.

On Section 116(a).

"We feel obliged to say that so far as it prohibits such acts as are charged to the incumbent it violates constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech and freedom of the press. We go no further. This section was enacted in 1906 and has been the compensation for the balance of the law. In other words, we are well assured that the legislature would not have rejected the entire law, had they realized that this section abridges the freedom of speech and the free-

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, June 13.—Great crowds lined the streets today in vicinity of St. Paul's cathedral and stood for hours in the rain, awaiting arrival of King George, Queen Mary and Dowager Queen Alexandra for memorial services for Field Marshal Earl Kitchener of Khartoum. The cathedral was opened shortly after two o'clock and the vast building rapidly filled with people fortunate enough to have tickets. The ceremony was a simple one. No admission had been allowed, and it was stated a building three times the size of St. Paul's would not hold the army officers, and the British Empire service was announced the service would be practically divested of any military ceremonials. No troops were present, and the King's household royal party was to pass and there was no guard of honor.

A feature of the service was the part taken by a band of royal engineers and drummers of the Irish guard.

The "Dead March" was played by the band and drummers, and after this benediction the guardsmen were scheduled to sound the "Last Post." In addition to services in St. Paul's, the memory of the dead soldier was honored by a ceremony in Westminster Abbey, while a third service was held in Canterbury cathedral.

ROCK COUNTY PICNIC COMMUNITY BOOSTERS PLAN FOR SEPTEMBER

Will Entertain Four Hundred Boys and Girls Who Are Taking Part in Contests.—Other Community Projects.

A big Rock county picnic in which city and country dwellers will join for a good time course will be held during the recreational department of the community co-operative committee of the Janesville Commercial club. The affair which will be held during the early part of September, before the opening of the school year, will be given principally for the 400 boys and girls of the county who are taking part in the various contests which are being conducted by the Commercial club. It is proposed to hold the gathering at Lake Geneva, making the trip from Rock county in automobiles. Five hundred carloads of pickers at least will be expected to attend the all-day affair.
Other community events which are being contemplated at earlier dates are the community relay race, which will be held within the next ten days, and the Rock Prairie field day, which will be on June 21. The relay race promises to be a unique affair. The course will be run on the distance of the various communities of Janesville. There will be a runner for each half mile and the community team which makes the best average time for the half mile distance will be awarded the banner to be presented at a dinner which the Commercial club will provide.
The Rock Prairie field day will be a big event and it is expected that fully one hundred automobile loads will attend from Janesville. In addition to the track and field events the youngsters there will be game of volleyball between a team of Janesville business men and farmers, and a game between Janesville women and women of Rock Prairie. There will be a picnic dinner and a general social time. There were over 400 who participated in this gathering last year. Efforts are being made to double that number this year.

WILL GET DIPLOMAS FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Class of Ninety-two Graduates From County Rural Schools Will Receive Certificates.

There will be a class of ninety-two boys and girls, graduates of the rural schools of Rock county, that will receive diplomas at the graduation exercises, which will be held Friday afternoon at two o'clock at the high school building. Of the class fully two-thirds are girls, and about one-third boys. In addition to the diplomas to be graduated on Friday there will be about fifty additional pupils who will get their certificates in August, after taking make-up examinations in one or two subjects.

In connection with the graduation exercises there will be the county spelling contest, which will be held Friday morning at ten o'clock. Seventeen townships will be represented by their two best spellers. The winners of the county competition will take part in the state fair contest.

At Academy.

At the graduation exercises of the academy of Milton College, held last evening in the auditorium at Milton, six graduates received diplomas.

Of these, Miss Helen Shaw and John Thorngate, of North Loup, Nebraska, are students in Milton College, who have in the academy completed the linguistic requirements for college entrance. The other four, Miss Nan E. Grundy, John M. Barless and John M. McLaugh of Janesville, and Harry E. Talbot of Milton, have just completed the regular course in the academy. Miss Grundy was awarded the freshman scholarship in Milton College for the year 1916-17.

The address to the graduates was by Prof. Arnold B. Hall of the University of Wisconsin, and was a powerful plea for social idealism and civic righteousness.

This afternoon occurs the baseball game between Milton College and Northwestern College in Hall.

Tonight the students play "Hamlet" in the auditorium.

Miss Wilson was given a prenatal shower Monday by Milton admirers.

Captain S. M. Bond and Mrs. Martha Rowland are representing the G. A. R. and W. R. C. at the Ripon encampment.

Mrs. Jones and Cunningham of Janesville attended the graduation exercises of the school of music Monday afternoon.

Dr. J. M. Palmer of Grays Lake, Ill., visited Postmaster Holmes and family Sunday.

Toasts to Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. by Mr. C. R. Bearmore.

Dr. Wolcott's wedding anniversary called on for an address.

Miss Wilma Jones—Piano solo.

Music was furnished throughout the dinner by the Misses Bonita and Mildred Olson on a piano and violin.

Alfred Olson sang a tenor, solo: "Somebody's here is Calling."

A piano solo was also rendered by Miss Clara Schwartz.

After the program the regular meeting of the board followed.

ONLY A FEW DAYS MORE OF OUR DICTIONARY OFFER

A word is the symbol of an idea. One may have the most original and forcible ideas, but without words to express them, they are utterly useless. It might be said that there are no new ideas under the sun. In the Chinese writings from the Sanskrit, the Chinese or symbol in the Greek or Latin tongues, we find the same thought again and again. It is the expression only, that varies. Each age, each nation must evolve its own form of expression or symbol in its literary art. The universal mind in the way frees itself by the individual genius which has caught its meaning.

Words of thought, word study, therefore, is one of the most important elements of education. And the dictionary which gives the derivation, the history, the modes of spelling, the history of the word, is the one indispensable workshop for the worker in words. Among all the eras of dictionary making, the present excels. And there is no excuse for anyone not to possess a valuable dictionary.

New Universities Dictionary, now being distributed by this paper, easily ranks among the dictionaries of its class. We hope that those who have not yet gotten it, will avail themselves of the opportunity presented today. The coupon published daily in our column explains the method of acquiring it.

FIRST HIGH SCHOOL ACTIVITY TONIGHT; PAGEANT TOMORROW

Class Night Program at High School Is Tonight. Pageant in Court House Park Tomorrow Afternoon

Complete arrangements have been made at the high school for the class night exercises that will be held at the school this evening. Between four and five hundred invitations have been issued and it is expected that the school will be filled to its utmost capacity. Only those receiving invitations will be in attendance. The program will begin at eight o'clock sharp.

Tomorrow afternoon at the Court House Park the annual High School pageant will be given. The outdoor pageant will be in the order of a Shakespearean masque in a celebration commemorating the three hundredth anniversary of the death of the great Shakespeare. Practically all the members of the senior class will take part and also members of the different lower class gymnasium groups.

Activities in the park will begin promptly at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Exercises for commencement night, Thursday evening, will be held in the Methodist church and will begin promptly at eight o'clock. Seniors selling tickets for this night have hoped that there is a great demand for them and most likely the church will be packed to the limit, a thing that could not be done if the exercises were held at the high school.

Class Picnic

The members of the faculty of the school proved to be rare entertainers at the annual senior-faculty picnic which was held yesterday up the river. About eight hundred were served at the supper around a big camp fire. A number of athletic contests were staged and a few of the seniors proved to be good sports, including the girls, too. Isabel McLaughlin made the biggest wind throw in the indoor baseball throw. Nevada McCarthy made the biggest wind throw in the paper yacht blowing contest. Malcolm McDermott's cracker eating contest won honors for him and the rest of his teammates. Constance Allison proved to be a deft-footed as she won the 50 yard dash in record time and came home with the honors. In the nail-driving contest Edith Morse and Edith Morse won the first prizes in both groups.

The program Harvey Fisher, class president, shook hands with Supt. H. C. Buell who represented the faculty.

Music was furnished during the evening by a mandolin club and all the latest songs, including the latest edited class song, were sung by the seniors.

MACHINE CO. PLANS FOR ANNUAL PICNIC

Employees of Big Janesville Plant to Hold Outing at Yost's Park Week From Saturday.

Janesville Machine company employees and their sweethearts and families are looking forward with interest to the eighteenth annual outing of the company, to be held this year on Saturday, June 24, at Yost's Park.

Similar to previous years the occasion will be a day of gaiety for the company's help and their families and to the company's credit an annual picnic is held.

General arrangements for the picnic are in charge of a committee composed of William J. Sullivan, John H. Coffman, J. Kellogg, E. J. Hanson, H. W. Smith, and Frank R. Birmingham. Mr. H. W. Smith is in charge of the music and transportation, while George H. Drummond supervises the work of securing tickets and badges.

A big list of athletic events, both field and aquatic, are being compiled by the committee, and liberal prizes are to be donated to the various machines and the office force baseball team have arranged for their annual baseball game and Captain Don Slawson of the company's team has made the announcement that this year is going to make a better showing than the one which represented the office men in 1915. The foremen have never been so good as the players since the game at the State fair, which they won by an overwhelming score. Fred Porter is lining up the former players.

John Flemming and F. Quade are also to be featured in an aggregation of company help basketball game, against the other in the tug-of-war. They have been named as captains of the respective teams.

John Farnsworth has announced that the interurban company will donate special cars on the day of the picnic, the first special leaving here at nine o'clock. The Bower City Band has been engaged to play in the park and will be dancing in the pavilion both afternoon and night.

Attempts are being made for the feature of a good baseball game. The team from the Janesville Red Sox and the team from the Janesville White Sox will play the Olympics for a contest during the afternoon.

FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.

By ALFRED W. McCANN (Copyright, 1916, by Alfred W. McCann.)

CHAPTER 70.

Our school teachers, with the aid of a few simple devices, can expose to the rising generation in one hour more truth concerning the rich glories of the whole wheat grain, and, at the same time, more of the unpalatable trickery of the millers, who traffic in denatured grain and grain products than any number of text books may in a lifetime disclose. The demonstration described here will inspire real and lasting interest in the integrity of all foods.

The school teacher, carefully sifting the balance of the wheat through this gauge No. 30, finds that 1 and 1/2 ounces remain on top of the gauge. The telltale lens shows that this rejected material consists of the particles of germ, bran, and other impurities, which are not only unsalutary but also are not absorbed by the human race in its wasteful attachment to flavorless white bread.

A chemical analysis of the contents of this gauge No. 30, No. 50, and No. 60, shows that about two-thirds of the mineral salts of the original whole wheat have been removed and thrown away, but our school teacher is not yet through with the experiment.

She will now take the silk bolting cloth and pass the balance of the wheat through it whereupon she will find that 2 and 18-32 ounces remain on the silk. Again the magnifying lens is applied, and it is discovered that the rich, cream-colored material consists of fine middlings, fine germ, and a few bran specks.

In this intimate mixture the bran is brown, the germ yellow, and the middlings white. The combination is very beautiful but it is not sufficient for human food according to the standards laid down by the millers.

The chemical test is again applied and it is discovered that on silk bolting cloth No. 9 and grits gauge No. 20, No. 50 and No. 60 three-fourths of 1 per cent. of the total, original mineral content of the whole wheat has been deposited. This mineral deposit is the contempt of the white flour miller. It represents the loss which all white flour sustains. It represents the vigor, vitality and bounding health which America is squandering for the sake only of a slab of white and lifeless bread.

But, our school teacher is not yet through with the experiment. Silk bolting cloth No. 10 and No. 13 have not yet been heard from. The balance of the wheat is put through No. 10. Only 17-32 of an ounce remains on the cloth. The lens reveals this stuff to be very fine, soft, and sometimes known as farina, sometimes known as cream of wheat. It will not support life. The life-giving elements are no longer present.

School teachers' pupils are not nearly so amazed as they are when they begin to feed chickens with the different separations which they have been making. That experiment, with all its picturesque and significant consequences, is still in store for them.

School teacher now takes the balance of the whole wheat meal and sifts it through silk bolting cloth No. 13. One and ten thirty-seconds of an ounce remain behind. This lens shows is fine flour, the summum bonum of modern milling.

More refined, white, patent flour comes covered with the middlings which are found scattered through all the other separations, so that out of the eight ounces of whole wheat about five ounces of flour, minus the middlings of the wheat, can eventually be recovered.

This flour is subdivided by the millers into patent, straight, and low-grade. When patent flour is selling for $7 a barrel of 196 pounds, straight flour is selling for $5 a barrel of the same weight, and low-grade flour is selling for $4.25 a barrel of the same weight.

School teachers' pupils have not yet learned that in accordance with their poverty or intelligence or the district in which they live they buy at one and the same price, these different grades of flour, each of which has many subdivisions, according to the commercial manipulations of the miller.

Up and down the more or less artificial tortuous circuit of Manhattan Island one kind of flour, low grade, under fanciful advertised brands is sold at 16 cents for a 3 1/2-pound bag, or at the rate of about $10 a barrel.

On the west side a 3 1/2-pound bag also sells for 16 cents, but it does not contain the same kind of flour, although it is decorated with the same label. The high grade flour, the west side flour is worth about 12 cents a bag, but the more ignorant west side people pay a premium of 4 cents for their ignorance. The high grade flour, assumed by the baker, who is the master of his own commercial ingenuity, is now "known," costs just as much as the low grade flour going to the dear people who don't know a thing about it.

The "high grade" is not employed here in the significance of nutritional value. As a matter of fact the higher grade flour the more it has been robbed of the elements indispensable to health.

On the east side, where poverty and ignorance are exalted with a still more lustful hand, the price of a 3 1/2-pound sack of flour remains the same, but the flour within is of still lower grade.

This form of commercial manipulation is made possible only because there are no flour standards in the United States.

As our school teacher becomes skillful enough in her use of the silk bolting cloth and silk bolting cloth it will be easy for her to separate the low grade and the dirty flour and the inferior flour and the siftings and tailings and other forms of inferior flour from most of the so-called patent flours now on sale in the large cities of the United States.

If the patent flour which is used for sifting purposes happens to be one of the many Kansas bleached products or one of the many other makes of bakers' flours, bleached by the Alsop Process, it will be difficult to detect the foreign matter in the flour under the lens.

After having sifted the patent flour, obtainable in any grocery store in the country, through the silk bolting cloth, school teacher will observe a few slides of window glass, six or eight inches long by two inches wide. On one of these slides she will arrange a few little hills of the different siftings of the patent flour upon which she is experimenting.

Placing these little hills side by side she will carefully slick them off with another piece of glass until with one steady downward pressing pull she has leveled all the little hills and given them a smooth surface.

She will then immerse the glass slide with its layers of patent flour in a pan of cold water. This operation will bring out the bloom of the so-called high grade flour and the gray and the dirt of its low grade neighbors.

The lines of difference between each of the separations will be as plainly marked as a hedged fence. The school children will not be satisfied to stop when they witness these startling exhibitions. They will want to jump the fence and explore the field beyond. We shall soon see how that fascinating prospect can be attained.

A combination is considered important. It is a matter of fact, the beef justifies its presence merely by adding to the protein deficiency which is thought to characterize the three other composing units.

Raisins are very low in protein, and contain only small quantities of fat, but are high in carbohydrates, sugars, starches, and dextrins. They are particularly rich in the food minerals, especially iron, thus contributing to the mineral needs of the body.

Sherman estimates fifteen milligrams of iron as the amount daily required in the diet. It will be necessary to consume only a small quantity of raisins to obtain this quantity of iron. Dates have much in common with raisins. Their iron content is slightly lower, but they contain more lime. Pearly must have had these facts in mind when he stored his ship with pemmican for there are few things which are more troublesome to the Arctic exploring crew than the outbreaks of acidosis known as "scurvy," which ailment has been definitely established to arise from a deficiency of lime.

The raisins and dates surrender enough of the basic elements to neutralize the acid secretions of the body on such a diet and still be in excess. Summarizing these considerations, we find that pemmican is a food which is a safeguard against acidosis, that it is rich in minerals, particularly in iron, lime and phosphorus, and has a fair share of protein and sugar, also a considerable amount of fat. Sometimes 10 or 20 per cent. of beef suet is incorporated in the mixture. While it contains two foods which give rise to acids, it yields an excess of bases, a most important preventative of acidosis. Pemmican in its simplicity and compactness lacks no essential nutrient. It in every way meets the requirements of a perfect food.

Beef, which constitutes one-fourth of the product, is a source of protein, a fact that alone gives the product no particular value, but which on account of the extremely low protein content of the other foods in the combination is considered important.

BLISTERS BURNED ON CHILD'S SCALP

Would Itch. Formed Scales Which Caused Unsightly Appearance. Child Very Cross and Fretful.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My little girl's scalp was affected with something like blisters and a thickening of the skin. At first it was a place about as large as a common pea and it would itch and burn and when scratched would run a watery fluid and from that would form scales which caused an unsightly appearance on her scalp. Her hair never grew any. She was very cross and fretful."

"Then I sent for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and the second application relieved the itching and burning so I purchased one box of Cuticura Soap and one box of Ointment and they healed her." (Signed) Mrs. Charles Culman, 118 College St., Poplar Bluff, Mo., Aug. 18, 1915.

Sample Each Free by Mail With 32-p. Skin Book on request. Addressed postpaid "Cuticura, Dept. 7, Boston." Sold throughout the world.

MAKES GUILTY PLEA TO ASSAULT CHARGE

WILLIAM COONEY OF MARINETTE PLEADS GUILTY TO SERIOUS COMPLAINT.

ATTACKS YOUNG GIRL

Police Catch Man With Nine Year Old Girl Out Mineral Point Avenue Near Deserated House.

William Cooney of Marinette, Wisconsin, this morning pleaded guilty to a most serious assault charge on Stella Breiby, a ten-year-old girl, last night, until he is sentenced by Judge H. L. Maxfield within a few days' time. Cooney admitted his guilt to the court because of the sensational character of the case, and until a more complete investigation and until the prisoner will remain in jail, not being able to furnish the one thousand dollar bail set by the court.

There is considerable feeling in Janesville against Cooney for his offense and on the streets, many men, who know the facts of the case, utter threats of violence. Last night near midnight, many people gathered near the city hall when Cooney was brought in by the police, but there was no attempt of the citizens to take the man in their hands or to interfere with the officers.

Offered Girls Work.
About six-thirty o'clock last evening, it is alleged, Cooney went down on Western avenue on the pretense that he was seeking to employ a number of girls to pick strawberries on his farm.

Stella Breiby, the daughter of Edward Breiby, 279 Western avenue, another girl, Lillian Tyrol, daughter of Anton Tyrol, 213 Western avenue, was also enticed away from her home. Cooney talked with a number of the children, offering to employ them on his farm and told them he would give three cents a box for picking berries. The girls, who were picked up by Cooney, were taken to his home, where he had several other girls that he wanted them to come out to his farm and pick berries for him. He was boarded by his wife, who explained was a "very good woman."

After much persuasion Cooney got the little girls to go with him. He took them to his home, where he and after showing them the way out to his farm, would bring them back. The Tyrol girl was somewhat afraid. During the night, Cooney and the three started out. Cooney told the older girls and several boys, whom he had been talking with, that he would carry them in his auto, and that he would be back Saturday to hire them.

Girls Go With Him.
He enticed the two girls to walk with him to the road near the river and finally led them to Mineral Point avenue, a distance of about a mile and a half. When the girls questioned him about his auto, he explained it was out to his farm, and that he would be back Saturday to hire them. Believing him, the girls kept on walking, talking and planning about picking strawberries and what they would do with the money that they would earn.

Out Mineral Point avenue he took the two children until he came within a half mile of the city limits. Before this he had cut in on the main road, and while walking in places, he used indecent language to both girls, but they in their innocence, did not comprehend his conversation enough to become alarmed. When he reached a deserted district, it was quite dark, and both of the girls were frightened enough to question him. He told them to walk much further his farm, and when they were going to be taken home.

Cooney, the Tyrol girl said, then offered them candy, and when she refused, he said he would give her a ride in his auto, and being afraid to refuse him, she ate the piece offered her. Near the scene of the assault, it appears that Cooney took a flask of whiskey out of his pocket, drank the remainder of it, and then threw the bottle away. On seeing him drink the liquor, both girls became frightened and the Tyrol girl began to cry.

Carried Off Girl.
Cooney grabbed the Breiby girl, and after picking her up in his arms, put his hand over her mouth to prevent her giving an outcry.

Cooney took Stella's hand and pulled to get her away from her mother, Lillian Tyrol. I pulled as much as I could, but he jerked her away from me and cursed fearfully. I was afraid to go, for I was all dark and away were in a pasture. He took me away and I stayed there and called to her, but she did not answer. I could not see where he took her and I was afraid to follow them," continued the little girl.

The Breiby girl told the police Cooney carried her some distance, near a deserted house at a road intersection, just outside the city limits. It is alleged that near this house Cooney attempted a perverting offense, but she fought him, and as he was badly intoxicated, the little girl succeeded in defending herself to some extent. It is not known just where the alleged attack took place. The two girls were unable to give a clear account as they are not old enough to be sworn in, and the girls were so frightened to take note of their surroundings. The Breiby girl's clothes were covered with mud and part of her clothing was torn. When she was finally rescued by the police.

Runs to Farm House.

When Cooney carried off Stella Breiby, Lillian Tyrol stayed in the pasture lot crying and calling to her playmate for help. Minutes later she recovered from her fright and ran to the farm house of Anton Wunder, on Mineral Point avenue. She told her account between sobs and hysterical sobs, and the family, knowing what must have happened, made haste to the farm of Charles Schindler, where the police department was telephoned.

At the police station, the officers knew of the alleged kidnapping between nine and ten o'clock, when the parents of the two girls became alarmed. The officers traced the three to Western avenue, where they were arrested. The Evansville department was warned about ten o'clock and these officers immediately obtained a fast automobile and began searching for the girls in Janesville. The patrol, with a load of officers and angry citizens, went out Mineral Point avenue, but could not find trace of the three because of the darkness. At eleven and twelve o'clock, Captain Thomas Morrissey, in the automobile owned by Albert Huebel, raced out to the deserted house. The shack was searched, and the officers found tracks in the mire outside. No one was found in the house, or was there any evidence that the assault was committed there. Just as Officer Morrissey was going back to the station following the plain tracks of the man and girl, Cooney approached him.

"I just found the girl you are looking for," explained Cooney, who was covered with mud, to the automobile. "And we have just found you," remarked Captain Morrissey, as he placed him under arrest and the two were taken to the station in the automobile.

Cooney was locked up and not questioned by the Chief of Police until this morning. He said he was thirty-one years of age. He claimed to have worked one week for a farmer west of this city. He did not know the name of the man, and could only describe him as having a yellow eye. Cooney said he had three children, about the same age as the girl, whom it is alleged he attacked. His wife, who he said, and the children live with his mother, who has the appearance of having worked on a farm and he has none of the characteristics of a tramp. He denied ever having been in an insane hospital or to have ever been arrested before.

Makes Guilty Plea.
Before Cooney was only allowed to plead. He expressed a desire to have an attorney appointed, and Judge Maxfield named E. F. Carpenter as his legal representative. The defendant told his attorney that he was so intoxicated that he could not remember what he had done, and he blamed liquor for the offense as charged against him.

The Baby girl was examined by Dr. Charles Gulbransen, the registered chief of the city, and S. G. Dunwiddie, district attorney. A report was made to the chief by the physician which substantiated the story told by the child. Cooney's case was set for June nineteenth, at ten o'clock. It is thought, however, that he will be arraigned for sentence before that date.

Members of the None Such Bros. Circus parade committee, at their meeting last night, have decided upon a spectacular and elaborate parade for this greater, burlesque feature of Janesville's Fourth of July celebration.

The committee has already been manifesting its power and the city is shown by the number of stunts, actors, and other features which will be included in the parade.

Interest has already been manifested by the number of stunts, actors, and other features which will be included in the parade.

Everybody Helping.
As it is now, the committee has half a dozen private "acts" already lined up. In addition to this they have a number of stunts, actors, and other features which will be included in the parade.

Robert B. Dailey was appointed to control the local troops of Boy Scouts, after he had outlined a feature which in the minds of the committee would be one of the big hits of the parade.

Mr. Dailey's idea, providing his scouts can be secured, is to put on a grand scale. It will entail considerable work, but Mr. Dailey was confident he would be able to work up his idea, providing the scout troops were available.

Joseph Burns, who during past circuses has handled the wild west attractions, is again in charge of this feature. He will have a number of stunts, actors, and other features which will be included in the parade.

The Spanish war veterans are to be invited to enter the local troops of Boy Scouts, after he had outlined a feature which in the minds of the committee would be one of the big hits of the parade.

ORDERS THREE MEN TO LEAVE THE CITY

Transients in Alleged Robbery at Hotel Discharged by Chief—Ed. Wolin Held for Slapping Minor.

Three men, Clarence Shane, Eddie Kane and "Slim Black," who figured in the alleged robbery at the Railroad Hotel, when two of them claimed to have been "rolled" for seventy dollars, were ordered out of the city by Chief of Police P. D. Champion this morning. The three were taken to the interurban car and told to stay out and away from Rock county.

The losers of the money refused to file a complaint against Black, and as the authorities would have to hold the other two transients for witnesses, and there was no assurance they would stay, District Attorney Dunwiddie decided the best way to settle the case was to "railroad" all three out of the city.

Chief Champion reported that the missing amount of money had been returned to the hotel by Kane and they refused to accuse Black of taking the money. After conferring together in the cell room, it appears that the trio decided that freedom was better than the county room.

Edward Wolin, 1103 South Cherry street, was arraigned in the municipal court for assaulting Robert Terwilliger, a nine year old boy, this morning. The complaint alleged that Wolin struck the minor boy on May thirty-first, at his home.

Edward Carpenter, appearing for the complaint, questioned the mother of the boy before the court, and after hearing this evidence, the judge allowed the request of Wolin that he be given time to bring witnesses before the court. Wolin alleged that he had pulled up and rolled down flowers in his yard, and after he had warned him to leave his property, slapped the boy on the face to enforce his demand.

The mother, however, claimed, and the boy stated, that he was not on Wolin's property. He denied having destroyed the flower bed. The mother claimed that Wolin injured the boy so he could not go to school and increased a physical affliction. The court declared that Wolin committed an offense by striking the minor, as he was an adult, and the amount of the fine would depend on the testimony to be offered this afternoon.

David Christman of Beloit was brought to the county jail last night to await trial on a charge of taking indecent liberties with a girl of tender age. He was held for trial by Judge Joan Clarke, on June 15th. It is claimed by jail officers that Christman has been charged with this offense several times before, but escaped without penal punishment. The case is somewhat similar to the one against Cooney in Janesville.

TO WED MILWAUKEE GIRL ON SATURDAY, JUNE 17TH

Osbert Stephenson Burke of Chicago, son of Mrs. M. A. Burke of this city, will be married Saturday, June 17, to Miss Elizabeth Scarborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Scarborough of Milwaukee. Miss Scarborough was formerly a resident of Highland Park, Ill., but went to Milwaukee with her parents about a week ago. The ceremony will take place in the evening in St. Mark's Episcopal church and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

A southern girl, Miss Blanche Barrett of Anchorage, Ky., with her bridesmaids will be Misses Winifred Cox of Colesburg, Ill., and Eleanor Burke of Janesville. The groom will be attended by his brother, Lewis Burke, of Chicago as best man, and the ushers will be Messrs. J. B. Scarborough and Henry Scarborough, Jr., of Chicago.

GIVE UNIQUE SOCIAL IN HONOR OF BRIDE-TO-BE

Honoring Miss Florence Strong, who is to become the bride of George Austin in the near future, a miscellaneous show was given last evening at the home of Mrs. T. F. Richards by the Senior Division Standard Bearers, of which Miss Strong has been a very faithful worker.

A good number were present and a very enjoyable evening was spent. During the evening several musical selections were rendered and a mock wedding ceremony performed. The bride party consisted of the Misses Strong, Delaney, Brownell, Wilhelmy, Delisle, Wendt, and Kneides. The bride was attired in a gown of white, and bridal veil of net. The groom wore the conventional black. The bride party entered to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mrs. F. T. Richards. The bride was seated in a toy milk wagon bearing the name of "Austin Dairy Route" which was wheeled in for the bride-to-be, which was filled with very pretty and useful gifts. Later dainty refreshments were served.

Miss Hazel Strong of Plattville, sister of the bride-to-be, was an out of town guest present.

FOOTVILLE

Footville, June 12.—Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Horan of Chicago, are spending two weeks of their honeymoon here, visiting relatives, at which they will visit Yellowstone Park before returning home.

The Misses Mayme, Irene and Etta Langdon of Janesville spent the week-end at the home of Dr. J. H. Farney. The regular meeting of the R. N. A. will be held Saturday night. All members try and be present as there will be a dress adoption.

Children's Day was observed Sunday morning at the M. E. church and was very much enjoyed by a large crowd.

"LOVE MASK" IS A DEBONAIR ROMANCE

Cleo Ridgely, Wallace Reid and Earle Fox Divide Honors in Pleasing Photoplay.

"The Love Mask," at the Apollo yesterday, was a debonair little romance, chronicled in some rarely good pictorial situations. It is a clever extraction of the cavalier element from the days of '49 in the west. Cleo Ridgely is a wholesomely satisfying player and works with a sincerity that wins sympathy.

It is hard to divide one's interest between Wallace Reid, as the gallant sheriff, and Earle Fox, as the scornful bandit and humorous robber of stage coaches. It is a real pleasure giving picture for one who enjoys a red blooded story.

COUSIN TO DIVINE SARAH BERNHARDT IS IN POVERTY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Chicago, June 13.—Maurice Bernhardt, first cousin to the world's greatest actress, Sarah Bernhardt, lives today by himself in a dingy rooming house in North Chicago. He is 32 years old, nine years older than the "Divine Sarah."

Bernhardt is a hero of the civil war. His ancestors served under Napoleon. His father was, in his time, the most prominent oculist in Paris. Maurice Bernhardt came to America as courier of the French ambassador Lascaux in 1859. Some years later Bernhardt was appointed official interpreter by President Lincoln. Maurice speaks nine languages—English, French, German, Spanish, Italian, Flemish, Yiddish, Portuguese, and Dutch.

At the outbreak of the civil war Maurice joined the Union forces and was appointed first lieutenant of the cruiser Keokuk.

He was assistant in command on the memorial cruise which resulted after two years in the sinking of the Confederate ship Akabama off the coast of Cherbourg.

After six years in the navy Bernhardt was given his honorable discharge.

He lost a small fortune in New York in the perfumery business, then came to Chicago. He ekes out his existence here by the sale of perfume.

His $80 pension quarterly goes to the maintenance of his son's three children in an orphan asylum.

Bernhardt has not heard from his cousin Sarah since the war started; before the war they were in constant communication.

SUPREME COURT JUDGES ARE OFF ON VACATIONS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., June 13.—Following the meeting of the supreme court today to hand down decisions many of the judges planned to go on their summer vacations. Enough of the judges will remain in the city for a week to admit the law graduating class at the university.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

Maurice Costello, who has enjoyed a wide popularity as a portrayal of heroes, has been signed for the principal role in "The Crimson Stain," a new serial which will be released shortly.

In the early days when great scenery was attached to the names of moving picture players, Costello was one of the first to become known and one of the first teams in picture to obtain recognition from the public was that of Maurice Costello and Florence Turner.

Costello is a native of Pittsburgh, Pa. He is thirty-nine years old.

SOME LATE NEWS CONCERNING COMEDY.

Ben Turpin is to be featured in a series of comedies, now in the making. These should be good. Turpin was shown in the earlier Chaplin comedies but couldn't be continued in them because his methods were too much like those of Chaplin.

Instead of feeding the star, as they say in vaudeville, his work was in conflict with Chaplin's. Very few movie comedies are making good enough to be featured longer than two or three weeks at any first class movie theater. One of the few exceptions to this are the comedies starring Mr. and Mrs. Drew. These hold up because they are bright little plays, aside from the real comedy which raises the audience to the laughing point once or twice in each story. There is no rival to Chaplin, and the only comedies which get an equal number of laughs are some of those featuring the plump Mr. Arbuckle.

"The Wild Girl of the Sierras," with Mae Marsh, Robert Harron and Wilfred Lucas in the principal parts, will be an early release. Miss Marsh appears as a girl whose sole companions have been the birds and beasts of the forests, who is encountered by a prospecting party composed of a youth with his parents, and a gambler with his confederates in crime. To sell the youth a worthless mine. The subject is spoken of as close to nature stuff, as there are said to be but three interior scenes in the entire five reels.

Maurice Costello.

Moving picture fans of five years ago will be glad to see him back on the screen. In the old days he was the most popular man in pictures. He has not been acting during the past year.

"The Chance Market," the new Baggot picture, was written by King Baggot, and again he is directing himself in it; moreover he is playing the two leading parts, thanks to double exposure photography. Irene Hunt, Frank Smith and Howard Crampton are in the supporting cast.

Mary Fuller is also in a trick photography picture. The story is "The Soul of a Child," by Olga Frinzi Clark, and one section of the action shows the soul of a child leaving the little body and entering a garden of roses, there to gather a rose.

Annette Kellerman's ambition is to be a classical dancer and singer. She is at present a star and is known as the "Diving Venus." Some people are never satisfied.

"LOVE'S TOLL," AT THE BEVERLY ON WEDNESDAY.

Amusements

(Notices furnished by the theatres.)

AT THE APOLLO.

John Barrymore in "The Red Widow." There many bombs which appear with startling rapidity in the famous Players' Film company's amusing photoplay adaptation of the celebrated comedy, "The Red Widow," a Paramount picture at the Apollo on Wednesday, and some of them explode with a burst of laughter.

Flora Zerkow, who was the co-star in the original production of the comedy, and Channing Pollock and Renic Wolf, repeats her stage success in the role of Anna Varvara. John Hendricks and George E. Mack, who played the Baron and Popova in the original version, are also seen in those roles in the photoplay.

Cleora Hannibal Butts, the alias assumed by John Barrymore in this production, is one of the most scintillatingly funny roles that this far-famed comedian has ever played. The bombs and the nihilists are by no means the only difficulties which confront Mr. Butts. He has a wife who, after spending some time in jail as the result of her duplicity, yearns to tell him a few things about himself. And there are a number of Russian secret police whose fingers itch for him after they discover that he has smuggled one of the most dangerous nihilists of Russia into the country as his wife.

"The Red Widow," with its distinguished comedy star, its remarkable cast and its elaborate settings, easily ranks among the greatest contributions of screen humor.

AT THE APOLLO.

Blanche Sweet Tonight. Blanche Sweet, the beautiful Lasky star, can be seen at the Apollo tonight in the Jesse L. Lasky production of "The Sowers," a thrilling drama of Russian politics, founded on Henry Selton Merriam's famous novel of the same name. The picture was written especially for Miss Sweet by Marion Fairfax, and produced under the personal supervision of William C. De Mille.

Miss Sweet is surrounded by a cast of unusual excellence. The prince with whom she is on love, and whom she renounces so that he may marry according to his rank, is played by Thomas Meighan, the Lasky leading man who recently made such a hit in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." Among others in the cast are Theodore Roberts, Isabel Van Buren, Camille Astor, Horace B. Carpenter, Ernest Joy and other members of the Lasky all-star organization. The photoplay is of the usual Lasky excellence and the entire photodrama is said to be one of the most startling and unusual productions ever seen on a screen.

AT BEVERLY THEATRE.

"The Family Stain." No more strange and thrilling story was ever written than "The Family Stain," adapted from "The Widow Lerouge," and presented at the Beverly tonight. It is a mystery story of far more than usual interest. In this story Emile Gaboriau gives greater play to his fantastic mind than any other story he ever wrote.

"The Widow Lerouge," a strange woman who lived several years in a small community, one day was found murdered in her home. The local police find the situation too big for them to cope with, whereupon an amateur detective, an old man of wealth named Talbert, is sent to see and begin to unravel the mystery. Such a tangle of complications as ensue are rarely, if ever, found in any detective story.

AT BEVERLY THEATRE.

"Love's Toll" on Wednesday. The great auditorium and stage of the Metropolitan Opera House in Philadelphia and the famous Ice Garden on the roof of the Biltmore Hotel in New York City, will be recognized among the big scenes that contribute to making notable the Lubin company's extraordinary photoplay feature achievement, "Love's Toll." This vast pictorial masterpiece, which is shown at the Beverly on Wednesday, represents the climax of endeavor in sumptuous interiors, as the majestic scenic wonders of the Grand Canyon were employed in making "The Great Divide," a photoplay classic, so has "Love's Toll" been constructed into a triumphal structure by the utilization of the architectural artistry and lavish decorations of famous institutions like the Metropolitan Opera House and the Biltmore Hotel.

In the scene at the Metropolitan Opera House Rosetta Brice, Richard Buhler and Crawford Kent as principals in "Love's Toll," sat in stage boxes surrounded by well known members of Philadelphia society. The stage, the largest in the world, was given over to a throng of several hundred extras formed by combining three big musical comedy companies, as no ordinary single organization can "fill" the Metropolitan stage.

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

—By—
MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters may be addressed to
MRS. THOMPSON
In care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Do you think that girls of sixteen can be in love? (2) I am sixteen and am very much in love with a boy at high school who is going to graduate this year. I have loved him for almost two years and he doesn't know it and doesn't pay any attention to me. He is going away to college next year. What can I do to get acquainted quickly and make him like me?

(3) I cannot think of anything but this boy. When I go places with my mother or with other girls I do not have a good time because I am thinking of him all the time. What shall I do? (4) Are cold cream and powder harmful to the skin? (5) Girls of sixteen can be in love, but it is a love that rarely lasts. (6) There is nothing you can do to become acquainted, little girl. If in two years he has not become interested in you it is not probable that he will in a few days. I am afraid you will have to give up the idea of loving him. (7) When ever you are thinking of the boy, force him out of your thoughts. You can do this if you will. Reading will help if you try to keep your mind on it instead of the boy. Get exercise and associate with young people, having just as good a time as you can. (8) Cold cream and powder, if they are of a good quality, are good for the skin and protect it against soot and sunburn.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) How can one keep the palms of the hands soft in spite of doing housework? (2) Is it proper to introduce people whom you happen to be walking with to someone you know right near your home, or if they are sitting out on the veranda? (3) What can I do with hyacinths that blossomed this spring? Could I keep the bulbs for next spring? (4) When one receives a wedding announcement and also a card telling when they will be at home, is it necessary to call? When the party is above you in social position, how many cards should one leave when the husband knows both parties and how long should one stay first call? We can not afford to entertain the way this party; that is why I hesitate about calling.

YOUNG HOUSEKEEPER.

(1) Make a hand lotion of one ounce of glycerine, two ounces of bay rum, twenty drops of carbollic acid and enough perfume to counteract the odor of the acid. If this is used after the hands have been in water it will make them soft and white. (2) An introduction is not necessary. (3) Leave the bulbs in the ground. (4) It is not necessary to call unless you want to. Leave two of your own cards and two of your husband's. Stay about fifteen minutes when you call. If the people are worth paying for friends they will not consider social position.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am seventeen years old and I have never gone anywhere with a boy. The other night a boy asked me to go to a dance with him and I said I would. I have danced with boys at dancing school, but I have never attended a real dance. Should I give him my wraps when I get there? (2) Who should suggest going home when it is time, the boy or I? (3) When we get home should I ask him to come to see me some time? (4) He will show you where the ladies' dressing room is and you leave them in there. (5) Usually you remain until the dance is over unless you have a good reason to leave early. (6) Yes.

UNCERTAIN GIRL.

(1) He will show you where the ladies' dressing room is and you leave them in there. (2) Usually you remain until the dance is over unless you have a good reason to leave early. (3) Yes.

MRS. EVA LEONARD

Ethel Vetoes Ralph's Plan for Making Her a Real Housekeeper. "Do you know what I have been thinking of?" Ralph Gordon looked down at the rumpled childish face with its delicate coloring. Ethel was sitting on a stool at his feet with her dimpled chin resting on her clasped hands.

"No, tell me."

"I have been thinking that we will start a private school here. I will teach my little girl to be a good housekeeper. The pink room—she will be the head of the household as she asked."

"Who'll be the teacher?"

"I've not that figured out. I'll ask my mother to come and visit us for a month. She will be a witness to the lessons, and at the end of the month."

"Indeed you'll not!" Ethel sprang to her feet, her eyes flashing fire. Your mother never liked me. She tried every way to keep you from marrying me. I'll never let her in here to come here to teach me housekeeping in my own home."

Ethel, you do not understand. She had nothing against me personally. She only realized as we are beginning to do, that a poor man can not get along with a wife who does not know a thing about making a home. She was ahead of us; we did not—"

"You need not say a thing about it to me," interrupted Ethel. "I suppose you are sorry that you did not take her advice. You should have married a woman who could work and do your cooking and scrubbing, everything in fact."

"Ethel, I have not deserved this. I am only trying patiently to think out a way to take us out of our difficulties. We can not go on this way. We are running behind all the time. If there was a school of domestic science here or any place where you could take a course—"

"I am not going to go to school like a child. It is absurd," snapped the spoiled little woman. "If I could have a school where mother come and give you private lessons. No one would know a thing about them and it would be a good chance to get acquainted with her. She would love you, I know. All she ever and against you was your ignorance."

"I told you once that I would not have her here. Ethel stamped on the floor with her tiny slipper. 'I do not love me or you would not want to humiliate me like that.' Ethel burst into tears and started to leave the room. Ralph caught her in his arms and drew her to his breast. 'Why, girlie, what is the matter?' I can not understand you. Mother is a capable housekeeper and she would be willing to help me out for the sake of our future happiness. We could begin all—"

"I will not stay here and hear you talk like this. I will not listen. Ethel's voice was choked with sobs. 'That would be a nice way to try to have a daughter-in-law and mother-in-law get along together; to have them begin as pupil and teacher. I must say you never let me in the storm of tears washed away her words. I am tired of you.'"

"Well, what are we to do?" Ralph's tone showed that he too was nearing the limit of endurance. "We can not go on this way; that is one thing sure."

"You had better send me home if you are tired of me," wailed the spoiled child. "Oh, come, talk sense. I am too tired to listen to high tragedy. There was such utter despair in Ralph's tone that Ethel took the handkerchief from her eyes, rose from his knee and went to her room. Ralph did not try to detain her."

SIDE-STEPPING THE CASTOR OIL NUISANCE.

Having repeatedly taken a wallop at that venerable hellion from Egyptian medicine, castor oil, and having received some very indignant protests from some very wide-awake old women—the kind who delight to know—it seems only fair that we should explain just how castor oil may be evaded under all circumstances. This ought to win for the much abused conductor of this chaos of obliquity the undying gratitude and love of all persons under the age of reason. After the age of reason, somehow, castor oil is seldom necessary.

The objections to castor oil, to repeat, are several: 1. Its nauseous flavor and the impossibility of wholly disguising or removing this flavor. 2. The fact that it is an irritant cathartic. 3. The fact that it causes red blood corpuscles to be passed in the bowel movements. Castor oil is no more soothing or healing than the laxatives, and serves no practical purpose which cannot be as well or better served by more agreeable remedies. We will mention a few of such remedies.

Aromatic Syrup of Rhubarb is a standard formula of the United States Pharmacopoeia. Given in the same doses, and for the same purposes, as castor oil, it will produce all the good effects you could expect from the latter, and at the same time make the little patient your loyal friend, for it is "the candy medicine." It is sometimes called "spiced" syrup of rhubarb.

For babies and children, a teaspoonful of milk of magnesia, which is a standard remedy of the National Formulary, may be given every few hours until effect is attained. It is tasteless when given in milk. It is alkaline, and tends to neutralize acid stomach and stop vomiting from that cause. It is rendered more active by the addition of a few drops of lemon juice or orange juice or other fruit juice given a few minutes after each dose. As a mere lubricant of the intestinal canal, any of the various mineral oil preparations—liquid petrolatum—may be given to a child in teaspoonful doses, two to four times a day as needed.

The aromatic fluid extract of cascara sagrada is a pleasant, mild laxative for babies and children, in doses of from five drops to half a tablespoonful two or three times a day. For older children and adults, a fresh bottle of liquid magnesium citrate (citrate of magnesia) may be administered, a wineglassful every hour until effect, as a mild, efficient laxative, for constipated bowels, is obtained. It should be given quite cold.

For habitual use—if diet cannot be made to regulate the bowel—a one-grain tablet of phenolphthalein, flavored with cacao, vanilla, wintergreen or just sugar, may be chewed at night, more or less, as individually required. Or, what is quite as harmless, an ounce of senna leaves may be finely chopped and mixed with about four ounces of figs, kept in a fruit jar, and doled out as a "chew" when a simple laxative is desired.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Father Must Be Getting a Little Nervous

BY F. LEIPZIGER

The TURMOIL

A Novel By BOOTH TARKINGTON

Author of "Monsieur Beaucaire," "The Conquest of Canaan," "Penrod," etc.

Mrs. Sheridan shook her head. "I don't see any help that way. You know yourself she wouldn't have him." "Who's talkin' about her havin' anybody? But, my Lord! she might let him look at her! She needn't 'a' got so mad, just because he asked her, that she won't let him come in the house any more. He's a mighty funny boy, and some ways I reckon he's pretty near as hard to understand as the Bible, but Gurney kind o' got me in the way o' thinkin' that if she'd let him come back and set around with her an' evenin' or two sometimes—not reglar, I don't mean—why, well, I just thought I'd see what you'd think o' it. There ain't any way to talk about it to Bibbs himself—I don't suppose he'd let you, anyhow—but I thought maybe you could kind o' slip over there some day, and kind o' slip around till you see how the land lays and ask her—"

"Me?" Mrs. Sheridan looked both helpless and frightened. "No," she shook her head decidedly. "It wouldn't do any good."

"You won't try it?" "I won't risk her turnin' me out o' the house. Some way, that's what I believe she did to Sibyl, from what Roscoe said once. No, I can't—and what's more, it'd only make things worse. If people find out you're runnin' after 'em they think you're cheap, and then they won't do as much for you as if you let 'em alone. I don't believe it's any use, and I couldn't do it if it was."

He sighed with resignation. "All right, mamma. That's all." Then, in a livelier tone, he said: "Ole Gurney took the bandages off my hand this mornin'. All healed up. Says I don't need 'em any more."

"Why, that's splendid, papa!" she cried, beaming. "I was afraid—let's see."

She came toward him, but he rose still keeping his hand in his pocket. "Wait a minute," he said, smiling. "Now it may give you just a little teeny bit o' a shock, but the fact is—well, you remember that Sunday when Sibyl came over here and made all that fuss about nothin'—it was the day after I got tired o' that statue when Edith's telegram came—"

"Let me see your hand!" she cried. "Now wait!" he said, laughing and pushing her away with his left hand. "The truth is, mamma, that I kind o' slipped out on you that mornin', when you wasn't lookin', and went down to ole Gurney's office—he'd told me to you see—and, well, it doesn't amount to anything." And he held out, for her inspection, the mutilated hand. "You see, these days when it's all dartin', anyhow, nobody'd mind just a couple o'—"

He had to jump for her—she went over backward. For the second time in her life Mrs. Sheridan had fainted.

CHAPTER XXXII.

It was a full hour later when he left her lying upon a couch in her own room, still lamenting that the "fuss" which she was making irked him far more than his physical loss. He permitted her to think that he meant to return directly to his office, but when he came out to the open air he told the chauffeur in attendance to await him in front of Mr. Vertrees' house, which he himself proceeded on foot.

Mr. Vertrees had taken the sale of half of his worthless stock as manna in the wilderness; it came from heaven—by what agency he did not particularly question. The broker informed him that "parties were interested in getting hold of the stock," and that later there might be a possible increase in the value of the large amount retained by his client. It might go "quite a ways up" within a year or so, he said, and he advised "sitting tight" with it. Mr. Vertrees went home and prayed.

He rose from his knees feeling that he was surely coming into his own again. It was more than a mere gasp of temporary relief with him, and his wife shared his optimism; but Mary would not let him buy back her piano, and as for furs—spring was on the wax, she said. But they said the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker, and hired a cook once more. It was this servitress who opened the door for Sheridan, and presently assured him that Miss Vertrees would "be down."

He was not the man to conceal admiration when he felt it, and he flushed and beamed as Mary made her appearance, almost upon the heels of the cook. She had a look of apprehension for the first fraction of a second, but it vanished at the sight of him, and its place was taken in her eyes by a soft brilliance, while color rushed in her cheeks.

"Don't be surprised," he said. "Truth is, in a way it's sort of on business I looked in here. It'll only take a minute, I expect."

"I'm sorry," said Mary. "I hoped you'd come because we're neighbors." He chuckled. "Neighbors! Some times people don't see so much of their neighbors as they used to. That is, I hear so—late."

"You'll stay long enough to sit down, won't you?" "I guess I could manage that much." And they sat down, facing each other and not far apart. "Of course, it couldn't be called business, exactly," he said, more gravely. "Not at all, I expect. But there's something o' yours it seemed to me I ought to give you, and I just thought it was better to bring it myself and explain how I happened to have it. It's this—this letter you wrote my boy."

He extended the letter to her solemnly in his left hand, and she took it gently from him. "It was in his mail, after he was hurt. You knew he never got it, I expect."

"Yes," she said, in a low voice. He sighed. "I'm glad he didn't. Not," he added, quickly—"not but what you did just right to send it. You did you couldn't acted any other way when it came right down to it. There ain't any blame comin' to you—you were aboveboard all through."

Mary said, "Thank you," almost in a whisper, and with her head bowed low.

"You'll have to excuse me for readin' it. I had to take charge of all his mail and everything; I didn't know the handwritin', and I read it all—once I got started."

"I'm glad you did." "Well—he leaned forward as if to rise—"I guess that's about all. I just thought you ought to have it."

"Thank you for bringin' it." He looked at her hopefully, as if he thought and wished that she might have something more to say. But she seemed not to be aware of this glance, and sat with her eyes fixed sorrowfully upon the floor.

"Well, I expect I better be gettin' back to the office," he said, rising desperately. "I told—I told my partner I'd be back at two o'clock, and I guess he'll think I'm a poor business man if he catches me behind time. I got to walk the chalk a mighty straight line these days—with that fellow keepin' tabs on me."

Mary rose with him. "I've always heard you were the hard driver."

He guffawed derisively. "Me? I'm nothin' to that partner o' mine. You couldn't guess to save your life how he keeps after me to hold up my end o' the job. I shouldn't be surprised he'd give me the grand bounce some day, and run the whole circus himself. You know how he is—once he goes at a thing."

"No," she smiled. "I didn't know you had a partner. I'd always heard—"

He laughed, looking away from her. "It's just my way o' speakin' o' that boy o' mine, Bibbs." He stood then, expectant, staring out into the hall with an air of careless geniality. He felt that she certainly must say at least, "How is Bibbs?" but she said nothing at all, though he waited until the silence became embarrassing.

"Well, I guess I better be gettin' down there," he said, at last. "He might worry."

"Goodby—and thank you," said Mary. "For what?" "For the letter."

"Oh," he said, blankly. "You're welcome, Goodby." Mary put out her hand. "Goodby." "You'll have to excuse my left hand," he said. "I had a little accident to the other one."

She gave a plying cry as she saw. "Oh, poor Mr. Sheridan!" "Nothin' at all! Dictate everything nowadays, anyhow." He laughed jovially. "Did anybody tell you how it happened?"

"I heard you hurt your hand, but no—not just how."

"It was this way," he began, and both, as if unconsciously, sat down again. "You may not know it, but I used to worry a good deal about the youngest o' my boys—the one that used to come to see you sometimes, after Jim—that is, I mean Bibbs. He's the one I spoke of as my partner; and the truth is that's what it's just about goin' to amount to, one o' these days—if his health holds out. Well, you remember, I expect, I had him on a machine over at a plant o' mine; and sometimes I'd kind o' sneak in there and see how he was gettin' along. Take a doctor with me sometimes, because Bibbs never was so robust, you might say. Ole Doc Gurney—I guess maybe you know him? Tall, thin man, acts sleepy."

"Yes." "Well, one day I an' ole Doc Gurney, we were in there, and I undertook to show Bibbs how to run his machine. He told me to look out, but I wouldn't listen, and I didn't look out—and that's how I got my hand hurt, tryin' to show Bibbs to do some thing he knew how to do and I didn't. Made me so mad I just wouldn't even admit to myself I was hurt—and so, by and by, ole Doc Gurney had to take kind o' radical measures with me. He's a right good doctor, too. Don't you think so, Miss Vertrees?"

"Yes." "Yes, he is so!" Sheridan now had the air of a rambling talker and gossip with all day on his hands. "Take him on Bibbs' case. I was talkin' about Bibbs' case with him this mornin'. Well, you'd laugh to hear the way ole Gurney talks about that! 'Course he is just as much a friend as he is doctor—and he takes as much interest in Bibbs as if he was in the family. He thinks Bibbs isn't any ways bad off yet; and he thinks he could stand the pace and get fat on it if—well, this is what'd make you laugh if you'd been there. Miss Vertrees—honest it would!"

He paused to chuckle, and stole a glance at her. She was gazing straight before her at the wall; her lips were parted, and—visibly—she was breathing heavily and quickly. He feared that she was growing furiously angry; but he had led to what he wanted to say, and he went on, determined now to say it all. He leaned forward and altered his voice to one of confidential friendliness, though in it he still maintained a tone which indicated that ole Doc Gurney's opinion was only a joke he shared with her. "Yes, sir, you certainly would 'a' laughed! Why, that ole man thinks you got something to do with it. You'll have to blame it on him, young lady. If it makes you feel like startin' out to whip somebody! He's actually got this theory: he says Bibbs got to gettin' better while he worked over there at the shop because you kept him cheered up and feelin' good. And he says if you could manage to just stand him bangin' round a little—maybe not much, but just sometimes—again, he believed it'd do Bibbs a mighty lot o' good. 'Course that's only what the doctor said. Me, I don't know anything about that; but I can say this much—I never saw any such a mental improvement in anybody in my life as I have lately in Bibbs. I expect you'd find him a good deal more entertaining than what he used to be—and I know it's a kind o' embarrassing thing to suggest after the way he piled in over here that day to ask you to stand up before the preacher with him, but according to ole Doc Gurney, he's got you on his brain so bad—"

Mary jumped. "Mr. Sheridan!" she exclaimed. He sighed profoundly. "There! I noticed you were gettin' mad. I didn't."

"No, no, no," she cried. "But I don't understand—and I think you don't. What is it you want me to do?"

Use Coconut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulified coconut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulified coconut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

He sighed again, and this time with relief. "Well, well," he said. "You're right. It'll be easier to talk plain. I ought to know I could with you, all the time. I just hoped you'd let that boy come and see you sometimes, once more. Could you?"

"You don't understand." She clasped her hands together in a sorrowful gesture. "Yes, we must talk plain. Bibbs heard that I'd tried to make your oldest son care for me because I was poor, and so Bibbs came and asked me to marry him—because he was sorry for me. And I can't see him any more." She cried in distress. "I can't!"

Sheridan cleared his throat uncomfortably. "You mean because he thought that about you?"

"No, no! What he thought was true!" "Well—you mean he was so much in your mind he thought so much of you?" The words were inconceivably awkward upon Sheridan's tongue; he seemed to be in doubt even about pronouncing them, but after a ghastly pause he bravely repeated them. "You mean he thought so much of you that you just couldn't stand him around?"

ABE MARTIN

It's the good loser that finally loses out. Folks that sing at their work never have any vocal ability.

"Well, I Should Say 'Gets-It' DOES Work"

"Look a' There, If You Don't Think It's Just Wonderful for Corns!"

"Bless my stars, look at it! Land of the living! Why, just look at it! That corn came right off just like peeling bananas. Put your finger on my toe, right there—don't be afraid—there's it—feel how smooth the skin is! Well, that's all! That's the way 'Gets-It' works on all corns, every corn, every time. It's the new, simple way of curing corns. You'll say good-bye to all foolish contraptions, like bandaging, sticking, tying, pinning, toe-eating salves, and grave-diggers. Never fails. Nothing to stick to, hurt or press on the corn."

"Gets-It" is sold everywhere. 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill. Sold in Janesville and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Red Cross Pharmacy and McCue & Busch.

COMMON AMERICAN BIRDS

INTERESTING INFORMATION ABOUT THEM SUPPLIED BY THE BUREAU OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY OF THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

HOUSE WREN

(Troglodytes aedon)

Length, four and three-fourths inches. The only one of our wrens with wholly whitish underparts that lacks a light line over the eye.

Range: Breeds throughout the United States (except the South Atlantic and Gulf States) and southern Canada; winters in the southern United States and Mexico.

Habits and economic status: The rich, bubbling song of the familiar little house wren is one of the sweetest associations connected with country and suburban life. Its tiny body, long bill, sharp eyes, and strong feet peculiarly adapt it for creeping into all sorts of nooks and crannies where lurk the insects it feeds on. A cavity in a fence post, a hole in a tree, or a box will be welcomed alike by this busybody as a nesting site; but since the advent of the quarrelsome English sparrow such domiciles are at a premium and the wren's eggs and family are safe only in cavities, having entrances too small to admit the sparrow. Hence it behooves the farmer's boy to provide boxes the entrances to which are about an inch in diameter, nailing these under gables of barns and outhouses or in orchard trees. In this way the numbers of this useful bird can be increased, greatly to the advantage of the farmer. Grasshoppers, beetles, caterpillars, bugs, and spiders are the principal elements of its food. Cutworms, weevils, ticks, and plant lice are among the injurious forms eaten. The nestlings of house wrens consume great quantities of insects.

Dinner Stories

Philip is an amateur artist who raves about nature. One day he was giving all his attention to a painting of a sunset of lurid red, with blue streaks and green dots. An old rustic crossed the meadow and stopped behind him at a respectful distance.

"Ab," said Philip, looking up at the old farmer, suddenly, "perhaps to you, too, Nature has opened her sky-pictures, page by page. Have you seen the lambent flame of dawn looping across the livid east; the red-stained, sulphurous islets floating in the lake of fire in the west; the ragged clouds at midnight, black as a raven's wing, blotting out the shuddering moon?"

"Well, no," replied the rustic, "not since I give up drink."

An American having told an Englishman that he shot on one particular occasion 999 snipe, his interlocutor asked him why he didn't make it 1,000 at once.

"No," said he, "it's not likely I'm

Suffered For Years

There are many people who will be interested in the experience of Mrs. Julia Byard, Fort Benton, Mont. She writes: "I suffered for years with gallstones. A friend wrote me about Fruitola and Traxo. I started taking it and am completely cured now and feel better than I have felt for twenty years." Mrs. Byard's testimony is similar to that of many who have given this remedy a chance to help them. Fruitola is a powerful lubricant for the intestinal organs, softening the hardened particles that cause so much suffering and expelling the congested waste in an easy, natural way. A single dose is usually sufficient to clearly indicate its efficacy. Traxo is a splendid tonic-alternative that acts on the liver and kidneys, stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion, and removes bile from the general circulation. Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Janesville they can be obtained at J. P. Baker, 123 West Milwaukee St.

TOO WEAK TO FIGHT

The "Come-back" man was really never down-and-out. His weakened condition because of over-work, lack of exercise, improper eating and living demands stimulation to satisfy the cry for a health-giving appetite and the refreshing sleep essential to strength. FISHERMAN IS A TANLAC BOOSTER

Chas. B. Patterson Says he Feels Very Much Better Since Using Remedy.

Chas. B. Patterson, a fisherman, who lives at 219 Stuart street, Green Bay, is rejoicing over his recovery from stomach trouble and lumbering through use of Tanlac. This is what Mr. Patterson says:

"I suffered terribly from stomach trouble and lumbering and could never find anything that gave me any relief until I used Tanlac a few days ago. I was in a bad condition. I could eat nothing without being distressed immediately afterwards. I would have the sharpest kind of pains in my stomach. I had a poor appetite and bad digestion. I also suffered from pains in my back. I lost a great deal of strength and had practically no energy. My sleep was not sound and I would often wake up several times during the night. I was always tired out and listless."

"After reading about Tanlac, the new medicine, and the good it was working, I decided to use it myself. I got a bottle and began to improve almost as soon as I started taking it. My stomach is in much better condition. I can eat almost anything without suffering and have a good appetite. I feel stronger too and have lots more energy. I can recommend Tanlac as a medicine that one can rely on."

Tanlac may be obtained here at Smith's Drug store.

You Are in Need Of a Stimulant! Mr. Business Man

IF YOUR BUSINESS SEEMS TO BE IN A RUT AND ALTHOUGH DAY AFTER DAY YOU CONTINUE TO PLOD ALONG WITHOUT ANY EVIDENT SIGNS OF ADVANCEMENT, YOU WILL FIND THAT YOU ARE BADLY IN NEED OF A "BRACER".

Small places of business find a stimulant for a steady and constant growth by the consistent use of the GAZETTE'S CLASSIFIED PAGE.

A small advertisement run continually on this page and changed occasionally will not cost much, but it will keep your business before the 35,000 readers of the GAZETTE in this county.

Advertising is merely suggesting to the public what to buy and WHERE. The CLASSIFIED PAGE OF THE GAZETTE is read every day by people who are looking for something they want or for someone who can do the work they desire done. SURELY, IF YOUR STOCK OR SERVICE ARE WORTHY OF ANY MERIT, THEY ARE WORTH ADVERTISING.

LET US GET TOGETHER AND SEE WHETHER WE CAN PLAN UPON A SYSTEM THAT WILL BRING ABOUT A NEW ERA IN YOUR BUSINESS.

CALL THE GAZETTE CLASS. DEPT. AND LET US KNOW WHAT YOU ARE INTERESTED IN.

Penalty of Abusing Confidence.
The individual who merits and receives supreme contempt of men is he who abuses confidence, because he is betraying one of the foundational bulwarks of social and business life. The law accounts every man accused of crime innocent until he is proved guilty. So the universe presupposes men's intentions to be honest until they are revealed as untrustworthy.

WHITE SOX ADD ONE MORE OVER SENATORS

Chicago Americans Climb By Trimming Washington Again—Cubs Win First Game From Giants.

With Joe Benz pitching whirlwind and steady ball the Sox blanked the Washington club at Chicago Monday night. The Chicago club making it three straight over the Senators. Score, 3 to 0. Benz held the Washington crew to three hits, and his teammates whaled the ball in the pinches to count one in the fourth and two in the fifth. Gallia pitched the game for the Senators.

Chicago's Cubs battled Anderson and Tesreau for eighteen hits Monday, beating the Giants for the first time this season, 8 to 2. This was Anderson's first defeat after six straight wins. Packard and Cieskie waded the game in the ninth when he fanned two batters with two on base.

BENNY LEONARD SCORES VICTORY OVER DUNDEE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) New York, June 13.—Benny Leonard, of New York, outpointed Johnny Dundee, also of this city, in a ten round contest here Monday night. Leonard had an advantage of nine pounds, Dundee weighing 122. Despite the handicap the latter gave a splendid exhibition.

Leonard is matched to meet Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion, here on Friday night. The bout is expected to be the most important of the year, as Welsh is reported to be in no condition to face a dangerous opponent.

MORRIS MILLER

Catcher Vernon Clemmons should add the punch and the spark of life to the St. Paul team. They seem to have the material there in St. Paul, but somebody is needed to bring it out. Clemmons was rated as about the best catcher in the Association last year and unless he has gone back because of idleness on the Brown's bench he will be near that again. A lot of critics opine he was a better catcher than anything Fielder Jones has left.

An odd play came up in a Moline-Davenport game one day recently. An outfielder got an assist on the third one, the catcher let it go by. The batter hesitated about running to first and the catcher threw to that base. It was a wild throw and the right fielder backing up got the ball and fired it back to first before the stupid base runner could reach the bag. Davis of Moline was the catcher who made the wild throw. Kaylor the right fielder who recovered the ball and Duggan the first baseman who made the unusual put-out.

Harken to another reason for Washington hitting better than in past years. The pitching in the American league is not near what it has been in the recent past. If you don't believe it run through the list of boxmen and study what they are doing. Not the Washington staff so far is showing any better than the rest, but when all are going poorly one team at bat has about as good a chance as the next one.

Still another reason why Washington as a weak batting team of the past is not to be doped so this year may be advanced. There are no great batting machines this year in the American league. Sam Crawford has gone from the Tigers and Ty Cobb is not having a wonderful year. Tris Speaker's punch has been taken from the Red Sox and Eddie Collins and those other Chicago sluggers have yet to show, while the old 300 hitting machine of the Athletics is no more.

Therefore a .250 hitting team in the American league is likely to be just as strong on the offense as any of its opponents, and the Washington Griffins are going to be backed by great pitching (which is bound to improve), reinforced by a lot of speed, some great fielding, and directed by a wise Old Fox.

Cleveland may beat out Washington, or Washington may be the team Cleveland has to beat out for a pennant, but if the Indians are figuring on administering that beating because the Griffins are going to fall off much in hitting, it will be well for them to revise their calculations.

If there is any one striking cause of "bitting out of the grade," it is the Cleveland team itself, where the main punch of that team is batting. 370 according to last accounts. The only other 300 hitter on the Indians is Elmer Smith, who has yet to show he can keep it up.

One of the oddest incidents of a ball game occurred in a contest between Vernon and Portland recently. With the score a tie and a Vernon runner on third, Manager McCredie of Portland walked from the bench and called to Catcher Fisher to give him some instructions. Fisher turned to see what his manager wanted and while listening to words of wisdom from his boss the Vernon runner sneaked in home. The Portland pitcher started to make a throw to the plate, but there was his catcher with his back turned and his ear inclined.

Salt Lake has turned infielder Eddie Hallinan drift and he has gone to his home in San Francisco. A great fielder, Hallinan could not hit and all clubs waived on him for that reason. Pitcher Chabek, also released by Salt Lake, has gone to his home in Chicago. Salt Lake gave him a trial after Oakland let him go, but he could not make the grade.

Announces the Opening of Wisconsin's Only Complete MOVING PICTURE STUDIO

Located at 510 Edison Street, Milwaukee

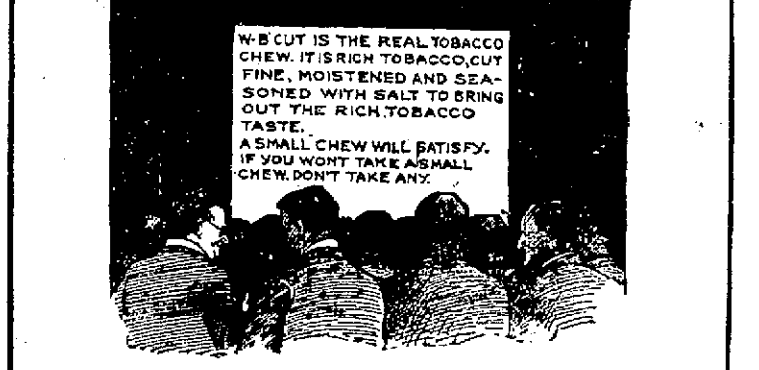

Our studio is fully equipped to produce anything in the motion picture line. Wisconsin has now entered the manufacturing moving picture field. We already have an assured market for all our productions.

We have reserved a few shares for the benefit of the small investor which we will sell at par value of $5.00 PER SHARE. There is no PREFERRED STOCK—all COMMON—no individual control, which assures full protection for the small investor.

WE INVITE INVESTIGATION.

Members Merchants and Manufacturer's Association.

ON the screen at the movies and out in the hum of life, the story is: "If you won't take a small chew don't take any." W-B CUT Chewing is rich tobacco. A small chew keeps you satisfied—without so much grinding and spitting. Men call it the gentleman's chew. It's good economy also—a 10c. pouch goes twice as far as a dime's worth of ordinary tobacco.

The Hidden Things

THE G & J 'G' Tread Tire is good to look at. It is also a thoroughly efficient anti-skid tire. These qualities are apparent. But the hidden things, the amalgamation of fabric and rubber tread and the quality of interior construction may be judged only by service rendered.

The fact that more G & J 'G' Treads are giving better service than most is an indisputable proof that they are quality tires. The fact that they cost but little more than ordinary plain tread casings, makes their value remarkably high.

Therefore, we recommend that your next tire be a G & J.

"That's My Tonic—Doctor"

"Glad to see you like it yourself—It's far better and more palatable than a lot of those nasty tonics you sometimes prescribe. You'd starve to death if people were all as happy and healthy as I am. BLATZ Beer keeps me healthy and well."

The leader for half a century—Pure, wholesome, sanitary—always good—always the same.

The Best Beer Brewed?

Prof. Charles Frederick Chandler, Professor of Chemistry at Columbia University, New York, says:

"Beer is food—is not intoxicating in ordinary quantities and beer is one of the foods that is free from bacteria. It is appetizing and aids digestion. If the prohibitionists drive beer from the household they will deprive a large part of the population of a wholesome article of food."

The triangular label on all Blatz Beer is a guarantee of uniform purity and flavor.
